Edition 26

July 2008

On Saturday 2nd August, Loch Duart Ltd organised a games day held on the football pitch in Scourie. The weather, after a dubious morning, was excellent, bright, dry and sunny with enough wind to keep away the midges.

The Primary School had a stall with a bottle bar, books and magic lollipops for sale and copies of the new updated Scourie & District telephone directory

Meanwhile, Nick Joy thought there is nothing to this cooking business. What has Gordon Ramsay got that I haven't.

The MacInnes van did a steady trade of refreshments throughout the afternoon

The Pink Sausage proved quite a challenge to some, but an insurmountable barrier to others!

There were various rounds of Sumo Wrestling throughout the afternoon

The main event of the afternoon was the presentation to Loch Duart by the Lord Lieutenant of Sutherland of the Queen's Award for Enterprise.

There was an excellent turnout from the village and tourists

The Scourie Ladies were game for anyone too!

A variation on the sack race

The first annual award of the Loch Duart Shield

The Tug-of-War

Presenting the bouquet

The junior team can take on anyone

The event raised over £600 for Marine Conservation

The games were opened and closed by piper Mark Macdonald
